SOLONS SEEKING "WAY OUT" IN STATE FINANCES

LOANS ARE AUTHORIZED FOR STATE INDUSTRIES WITHIN
LAST TEN DAYS, IT IS SHOWN

House Investigating Committee Continues Inquiry Into Places Where Money of Bank of North Dakota is Placed—Deposits Outside State Average Over $5,000,000 for Long Period and Reason is Given—Money in Closed Banks is Shown—Brinton Quizzed as to "League Operations."

State industries are continuing to borrow money from the Bank of North Dakota, according to evidence adduced today in the hearing of the house committee, inquiring into them.

Loans were authorized by the Industrial Commission as late as January 28, 1921, records of the Industrial Commission, produced at the hearing show.

These loans now authorized total $1,135,000. Although several weeks ago the Industrial Commission stopped work on state industries because, it was said, heavy withdrawals were being made from the Bank of North Dakota by political sub-division treasurers, new loans have been authorized since to take up existing indebtedness of the mill and elevator association and the Home Builders association.

Among the other facts with regard to the bank, which are looked upon by critics as tending to show critical conditions and lack of proper management, were:

Redeposits in closed banks total $720,506.52, according to the bank's own records, which does not include loans, which previous reports have placed upwards of $300,000.

Of the profits of the Bank of North Dakota, since organization, $138,529.12 comes from interest coupons on bonds issued for the bank's capital stock for which no money actually was exchanged.

Past due loans as of Dec. 3 totalled $1,405,438.32, according to the bank's records.

Expenses of operating bank from May 1, 1919 to Dec. 3, 1920, as shown by the Bishop-Brissman report, held correct, to be $233,543.15.

Average deposits outside of state in other banks averaged better than $5,000,000 from Nov. 15, 1919 to June 3, 1920.

Counsel for the committee announced today that Mr. Lemke had stipulated that the Bishop-Brissman & Company audit was substantially correct.

By reason of this agreement it will not be necessary to produce many records.

Loans Detailed.

The loans being made to state industries were fully gone into by the reading of minutes of the Industrial Commission by H. A. Paddock, secretary, called as a witness, and questioned by Attorney Murphy.

The record of authorization of advances by the Bank of North Dakota to industries showing a total of $1,135,000 as read by Paddock, showed:

April 9, 1920—Advance of not over $100,000 to Home Builders.

Nov. 13, 1920—Not over $115,000 to Home Builders.

Dec. 16, 1920—Minutes said previous item should read $125,000.

Jan. 28, 1921—Resolution offered by Mr. Lemke in Industrial Commission and carried, authorized not more than $60,000 to Home Builders to complete houses under construction.

Sept. 29, 1919—Mill and Elevator association authorized to issue interim receipts not over $50,000.

July 7, 1920—Further credit of $100,000 authorized.

Aug. 14, 1920—Further credit for Grand Forks mill construction of $200,000 authorized.

Nov. 13, 1920—Credit up to $300,000 authorized, on account Grand Forks mill.

Jan. 28, 1921—Authorization for Grand Forks mill work to $200,000.

Take Up Overdrafts.

The policy as obtained by the witness upon questioning was that the bank advanced the money and the authorization took care of overdrafts and outstanding checks.

Mr. Paddock read a list of notes given by the Mill and Elevator association and the Home Builders. They totaled $1,135,000, showing all the money authorized had been taken by the industries. The rate of interest shown was 6 percent, and the notes were all demand notes.

Inquiry as to the persons in charge of the industries brought the answer that on Nov. 13 the Industrial Commission placed W. A. Anderson, then secretary of the Industrial Commission, in charge of the Drake mill, and that no change had since been made.

Mr. Paddock assuming Anderson's duties the first of the year.

Since the illness of R. B. Blakemore, manager of the Home Builders, J. B. Adams is in charge.

Johannsen Called.

A Johannsen, director of audits of the bank, was placed on the stand by Mr. Paddock.

He was asked to give a statement showing the redeposits in closed banks as of Dec. 3, 1920, and in all banks closed since that time. The total to Dec. 3 was given as $359,235.64 and in banks closed since that time, $166,270.90, or a total of $525,506.52.

SAW BLAZE AT ELEVEN, HE SAYS

M. T. Mossbrucker declares that he saw the blaze on the roof of Reservoir No. 1 of the Bismarck water works at 11 o'clock Tuesday evening while on his way to Mandan. He did not realize then, however, that it was anything but a little brush or rubbish fire.

The fire will not affect the water service any.

HOUSE, SENATE
DISAGREE UPON
LICENSE BILL

House Committee Would Abolish Department; Senate Would Enlarge It

ANTI-I. W. W. BILL UP

Criminal Syndicalism Bill Goes to Third Reading After Discussion

A conflict on the state pool hall licensing department looms in the legislature between the senate and the house, as the result of action taken by the house late yesterday in amending senate bill No. 18.

The senate bill re-enacted the law, and provided for five inspectors in the department at $2,500 a year instead of three, at a lower salary, and broadened the scope of the department somewhat.

The house adopted the report of the state affairs committee which would abolish the inspectors entirely, and transfer the enforcement of laws and licensing of pool halls, dance halls, etc., back to the municipalities. If the house passed the measure with this amendment as indicated by its action, it will stand directly opposed to the senate attitude.

When the state affairs committee reported to the house there was a majority and minority report, the independent majority favoring the amendment and the minority of Non-partisans standing for the bill as it passed the senate. The majority report was adopted.

During a session of the house committee of the whole house bill No. 100, the criminal syndicalism bill, aimed at sabotage and criminal syndicalism, was advanced to third reading with amendments.

Excludes Lawful Labor Acts.

The bill is aimed at the I. W. W. and similar organizations. Ray Johnson asked that the bill be amended to include a statement that the act was not intended to affect legitimate activities of organized labor, saying that representatives of organized labor asked this assurance.

There was some difference of opinion on the point.

Representative Del. Patterson suggested that this would be class legislation, and suggested that the provision specifically mentioning organized labor be stricken out and that the words "any persons or persons" being inserted. Representative Johnson said that the words with reference to organized labor were meant only to express the intent of the legislature, and remove any misconception of the measure.

Speaker Twichell said that there wasn't any camouflage about the measure, that it was a measure against sabotage and syndicalism as practiced by the I. W. W.

The amendment referring to labor unions remained in the bill, 54 to 38.

Many New Bills.

Sixteen new bills were introduced before the time limit expired, the house being in recess until 2 p. m. to permit introduction of bills and reading of bills presented the day before.

Among them were measures repealing the $15 tax on attorneys, a concurrent resolution for a constitutional amendment making the term of office of supreme court judges ten years, a bill creating the office of county assessor, a non-party election bill, amendments to the grain inspection act, measures designed to aid the farm bureau plan of pooling grain for sale, and a measure redrafting the co-operative laws of the state.

Minimum wages for teachers are provided in a bill introduced yesterday by Byrne and Storstad. It grades the teachers according to their experience and training and places the lowest amount of salary which may be paid at $810 for the first grade and up to $1,400 as a minimum for the highest grade.

Requires Bond.

Senator Liederbach's bill appropriating $175,000 for the Missouri river bridge was one of the bills passed yesterday. Others required attorneys collecting money to pay a license fee and file a $2,000 bond, created a public health commission and permitted consultants to act as administrators of estates when the heirs are foreigners.

Charred Remains Found by Boy Sunday Morning Lying on Cot

Zap, Feb. 9.—No information has been found which gives a clue as to what started the fire in which Adam Lapp was burned to death Saturday night.

Lapp's body was found by a young boy Sunday morning.

It is alleged that Lapp and two companions had been drinking "home brew" and that the men left Lapp lying on a cot in a summer kitchen at about 10 P. M.

When discovered his remains were still on the cot, with only the skeleton left.

He was 22 years old and was farmer. He was 22 years old and was a farmer, living five miles southwest of Zap.

OFF TO SNAPSHOT ADAM!

Mrs. Roy Chapman Andrews

SEARCH FOR ADAM TO COST $250,000

By B. M. THIERRY.

New York, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Roy Chapman Andrews is out to snap a picture of Adam!

Or at least the fossilized remains of prehistoric man—or perhaps the missing link!

Mrs. Andrews will be the only woman in the $250,000 expedition of nine scientists who will leave Feb. 22 to explore China and Central Asia. Her husband, a noted explorer, will lead the expedition. It has been organized by the American Museum of Natural History and will make collections for the museum and for the Chinese government.

"I'm going as the official photographer," said Mrs. Andrews. "I'm going wherever the men go—in desert, in mountains and jungles. Perhaps we'll find the Garden of Eden!"

"Wouldn't it be exciting to dig up the fossils of Adam and Eve?"

Mrs. Andrews, who is little and slender, laughed.

On Other Explorations.

Mrs. Andrews has been in Central Asia before, on exploring trips with her husband. And she points to scientific research that indicates this section offers the best paleontological proof that it was the cradle of the human race.

"And also it was the center from which came many of the animals found in other parts of the world," added Mrs. Andrews. "A sort of original menagerie."

Prof. Andrews is a zoologist and will specialize in the prehistoric animal hunt. But there will be paleontologists, archaeologists and various other "ologists" with the expedition.

"Thrills? You bet there will be thrills!" exclaimed Mrs. Andrews.

"Not at the time, of course. For we will operate from a base headquarters at Pekin. But we will be out in wild country most of the time."

Among the terrors will be bandits and barbarians in southern China along the borders of Tibet and in Mongolia and Turkestan.

"Over in Pekin," she said, "everybody is scared stiff when you suggest a trip into the interior. Far more than we are over here."

"Why, America is teeming with people who want to go along. We have had more than 3,000 applications—from men, women and children."

"Everybody from 17 to 78 seems to want to help us find the missing link!"

Cover Much Territory.

Wives of other scientists with the expedition will make the trip as far as Pekin. But they will remain there, while Mrs. Andrews goes out armed with a camera. The scientists will divide into groups in order to cover as much territory as possible.

The expedition will continue five years.

"I expect to have plenty of adventures," says Mrs. Andrews, "but not the kind you read about in novels or see in movies. I'll be just as safe, and feel quite as comfortable as in a New York hotel."

Airplanes and motor cars will be used by the expedition as well as camels, horses and mules. In its quest for Adam.

LEGISLATORS
DENY SELVES
$150 "EXTRA"

Legislators won't get $150 expense money for attendance at the 17th legislative assembly.

The house late yesterday killed the senate measure to appropriate $25,000 and allow $150 as expense money to every legislator.

There was a strong feeling among many members, who say that it costs more than their $5 a day salary to live here, that the measure ought to pass, but the majority of the house believed that no action ought to be taken by the legislators for themselves, even though they attend session in Bismarck at a financial loss.

The measure had passed the senate with little opposition, but after running against the "economy crew" in the house it was hopelessly lost on a viva voce vote.

Representatives Carlson and Boyd introduced a concurrent resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to fix pay of legislators at $10 per day.

The senate state affairs committee proposed the legislators receive $1,000 for each session.

SENATE PROBES HOLD FIRST
HEARING ON FLOOR TODAY

The senate investigation committee was to hold its first hearing on the state industries before the senate as a whole at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

J. W. Brinton was summoned as the witness of the afternoon.

The committee held a meeting in the Bank of North Dakota offices last night, with E. G. Lee, accountant of Bishop-Brissman and company, on the stand to explain the audit of the bank. The committee decided to summon accountants Smith and Aultman, who examined the Home Builders association, and Mr. Bishop.

Attorney-General Lemke will appear both in the role of attorney and witness before the committee. The committee decided to go into the conduct of the officers of the Bank of North Dakota, and the Industrial Commission members. Senator Baker said that Lemke would be called as witness, and moved that he be permitted to employ counsel when necessary.

Senator Murphy suggested H. A. Paddock, secretary of the Industrial Commission, act as attorney. Paddock said he had too much work on his office.

Legal Standing of Lennie Eaton, Negro, Before Attorney General

FORGOT HIS DATE

Official Says in Press of Business He Forgot Hanging Scheduled

Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 9.—Lennie Eaton, the man the sheriff forgot to hang, may be dead legally. Attorney General Cocco admitted today he did not know.

Sheriff wrote the governor that if the press of civil and criminal matters he utterly forgot on Feb. 4 to put the negro to death. He has no warrant to execute his prisoner on any other day.

To Attorney General.

The governor turned the matter over to Attorney General Cocco, who is taking the law books over for precedent.

The attorney general issued a statement today declaring that from investigation of the Eaton case as a member of the board of pardons, he believed that the negro should not be hung. He added that if he had known that the date of the execution had been set he would have called the governor's attention to a request for a commutation of sentence by the sheriff, who had said to hang the negro would have been a travesty on justice.

Self Defense Held.

"My investigation showed that the killing of the white man was done in a fracas," he said.

McDowell Says Co-Operation and Thrift Will Remedy Financial Situation

URGES MEETINGS

Reserve Bank Director Wants Farmers and Business Men to Gather

Fargo, Feb. 9.—Co-operation and thrift will rapidly clear up the financial situation in North Dakota, Wesley McDowell, director of the federal reserve bank in the state today told hardware dealers of North Dakota gathered here for the twenty-fifth annual convention late yesterday.

At the same time he advocated a program of conservative credit and liquidation on debts as possible.

Among factors which will improve situation are:

Growing realization among the people of need for retrenchment.

Farmers are well provided for feed. Cheaper labor and feed will lower costs of putting in crops.

Stock in Good Shape.

The mild winter has left stock in splendid condition.

He advocated a series of meetings throughout the state between business men and farmers to promote feeling of co-operation.

FISCAL POLICY CHANGE MAY BE PROPOSED SOON

Informal Conferences of Legislators Bringing Situation Near a Head

COMPROMISE POSSIBLE

Situation With Respect to Financing State Industries Brings New Attitude

A way out of the financial difficulties now besetting the state industries of North Dakota is being sought by some of the leading figures in the legislature.

Before the session is ended, a program of legislation may be evolved from discussions and informal conferences that will radically change the present financial policy of the state.

The situation was brought forcibly before Nonpartisan leaders in the senate with the introduction by Senator Bond of some bills affecting the policy of the Bank of North Dakota. The lowering of deposits of the bank, the fact that the industries are almost at a standstill and the necessity of pouring more money into them if they are to be continued has brought many legislators to the position that a new policy must be evolved.

The Bank of North Dakota faces the necessity of paying heavy obligations in the near future. It has a loan of $1,000,000. March 15, the school aid of about $220,000 becomes payable in March, and demands are now being made on the sinking funds by school districts and other subdivisions in the state. There have been reports that a receiver would be asked for the bank soon.

The opponents of the bank policy declare the bank is insolvent. This is denied by the bank officials. The problem presented is that of finding "liquid" assets sufficient to take care of the financial obligations and of developments.

Evidence produced in the house investigation has shown that advances from the Bank of North Dakota have been made in the last few days to the Home Builders and the mill and elevator associations, and for overdrafts and other obligations.

Unless the Bank of North Dakota can marshal money the Grand Forks mill can not be completed. The bank is trying to do this through sale of bonds. Efforts to dispose of the $60,000,000 in big lots in the east have not been successful. The bank now is offering them in small lots, and is making a drive to sell them. The industries, however, call for great sums of money.

One leading financial authority in the state has told Nonpartisan leaders that the only way to sell the bonds is to scrap the present plan and issue them as an obligation of the state as a whole, not as obligations of a particular industry. This authority declared the state's credit was unimpaired and that North Dakota, because she has not suffered an inflation and deflation of land values, is in a sound position.

At the start of the legislature an effort was made to have a conference committee work on the situation. This failed, and it was expected that nothing would be done. However, today there were many legislators, some of whom have been active in seeking counsel and in trying to evolve a successful plan, who take the position that something must be done in the remaining weeks of the legislature.

For this reason it may be that a program will come from one side or another attempt made to get together of compromise.

Colonel C. B. Little, of Bismarck, was called before one of the league conferences and asked to express his opinion as to the manner in which the situation could be met. He told them frankly that there was no other way than to liquidate the bank.

A. C. Townley, president of the league, it is reported at another conference, urged the adoption of the compromise plan and the liquidation of the bank. He said that the banks of the state were not bitterly opposed to the state bank but that the outside bankers were and that he considered it advisable to take this action.

Mr. Townley's views, declare leaders, did not meet with the approval of most of the league senators and representatives and there appeared to be a feeling at the meeting that his decision had been reached largely because of the effect on his work in other states.

One of the league senator floor leaders, it is reported, was the first to follow the league president. He locked horns immediately. He said that the farmers of North Dakota wanted to fight through to the last ditch for their program.

Mr. Townley replied that it would be better to save part of the program than to jeopardize all of it.

Others then got the floor, but Townley insisted on talking much of the time, which caused another league floor leader of the senate to get up and suggest that the league president refrain from debate so as to give the members of the legislature an opportunity to express themselves as they best knew the sentiment among their constituents.

No vote was taken on the proposition. (Continued on Page 8.)

WHISKY RUNNERS IN GUN PLAY

Fargo, Feb. 8.—The theft of an automobile load of Canadian whiskey near Fargo college at midnight Sunday, during which 10 shots were fired, has resulted in the arrest by the sheriff and police department today of two alleged runners and four local men, Fred Lutenville, Fred Hunsen, Leo Welter and Len Anderson. The six men, when questioned today at the Cass county jail by State's Attorney William C. Green, virtually admitted their guilt, the officers said.

Plot Is Laid.
The two alleged whiskey runners, A. E. Anderson of Fargo, and L. P. Lundquist of Moorhead, and Minot, who are being held on charges of carrying concealed weapons, are said to have arrived in Fargo from Minot Sunday morning with a Buick roadster loaded with whiskey. Lutenville has admitted that he made an agreement with Anderson and Lundquist for the purchase of the liquor and that they were to drive to a spot just south of Fargo college at midnight on Sunday.

SUGGESTS WAY TO CONTINUE N. D. IMMIGRANT DEPT.

Benson Introduces Bill Giving
It $73,000 for Two-Year Period

TAX FOR CONCERTS

Bond Offers New Banking Reserve Law; Kendall Wants Dancing Ban

Senator Benson, leaguer, has found a way to continue the immigration department without the appropriation of any additional funds. Dr. John Worst, immigration commissioner, has an unexpended balance in his fund of $73,000 and in the senator's bill introduced yesterday would have this amount made available for the expenses of the next biennial period.

Senator Baird, independent, introduced a bill which declares the war with Germany ended, so as to fix the date of the termination of the moratorium act. This law passed at the special session grants soldiers one year after the war is ended in which to adjust their finances.

Ban on Dancing.
Senator Kendall, leaguer, would prohibit dancing in any public school gymnasium, exclusive of the university and the agricultural college. A bill similar to the one introduced in the house by Sagen of Ramsey, and defeated, has been offered in the senate by Senator Mikkelsen, leaguer. It provides for the resignation of electors and requires that they be notified of grain liens.

Increase Reserve.
A compromise between the old banking reserve law and the new one enacted by league legislature has been provided by Senator Bond of Minot, by introducing a law fixing the legal reserve at 15 per cent on checking accounts and 10 per cent on time deposits. The present law requires 10 per cent on checking and 7 per cent on time deposits. The old law was 20 and 10.

Free concerts in towns and cities paid for by a special tax not to exceed one-half mill on the taxable property. Senator Hagen, leaguer, wants mortgage holders notified five days before action is taken.

FLOOD OF BILLS IN LEGISLATURE AS TIME CLOSES

Important Tax Measures Among Those Introduced in House of Representatives

The time for introduction of bills in the legislative assembly has ended, except through the committee on delayed bills.

The house of representatives recessed until 1 p. m. this afternoon to permit first and second reading on a score of bills introduced yesterday afternoon. The total number of bills introduced will be less than the number usually introduced.

Among the important last-minute measures is a tax limitation law favored by the tax commissioner. It would limit the total of levies for county, township, city or village purposes to an aggregate of 5 per cent over the amount legally levied in the year 1921 and the increase for each succeeding year would be limited to the same amount.

In case of emergency the local governing body might apply to the state board of equalization for permission to exceed the limit, and if the board refuses, could call a special election.

Another bill provides for a county assessor, require all property to be assessed by the county assessor, chosen by civil service for a four-year term, given the same pay as the county auditor and empowered to name deputies.

Representative Dell Patterson introduced a bill to reapportion the railroad tax money, providing the state keeps 15 per cent, the counties get 50 per cent in proportion to the amount the railroad property in the county bears to the entire amount in the state, and the balance would go to the state.

PROBING BODY IS UPHELD IN HOUSE ACTION

Refuses to Permit Nonpartisans

Body

"LYING" MUCH USED WORD

Speaker Twitchell Calls Down
Members Who Engage in Personalities

The house of representatives stands on record today as approving the course of the investigation into state industries.

The approval came through a vote on a resolution offered by Representative Johnson of Steele and Griggs counties, which was divided into two questions when voted upon. The vote followed that the house yesterday afternoon.

Representative Johnson, who, with two other league members of the house probing committee of nine, withdrew yesterday during the inquiry, asked that he be permitted to resign. His request was voted down, 57 to 64. Representative Johnson passing and one being absent.

The second part of the resolution condemned the manner in which the investigation is being conducted as unfair, alleging the minority had not been given proper consideration and charged that investigation was not a fair investigation but an effort to destroy the state industries. This part of the resolution also was voted down.

Committee to Continue.
The investigating committee will continue to function. Representative Veldt, Nonpartisan, was not included in the Johnson resolution, but he served notice that he wished to resign.

Little else was done during the house session. A flood of bills went into the hopper, it being the last day under which bills may be introduced, except through the committee on delayed bills. The house recessed until 1 p. m. today to permit the bills to be given first and second reading.

Anti-Liquor Bill Up.
House bill No. 8, the "Volstead companion" bill to aid in the enforcement of the liquor laws, came back to the house with some senate amendments, and the house must concur before the bill goes to Governor Frazier for signature.

Chairman Grangaard of the committee declared during the debate that he felt that minority members ought not to condemn the committee, or hold it guilty, until it had done its work. He said the printed record of the session would show the Attorney General Lemke had been present during all the time the committee had been holding hearings.

Sees Hand of Privilege.
Representative Dell Patterson declared that he could see a great hand of special privilege reaching out to crush the women and children these industries were built to protect, and he denounced what he called an attempt to defeat the efforts in the state against special privilege.

Several heated scenes marked the debate. At one time Speaker Twitchell called the sergeant-at-arms to force Representative Larkin to sit down, but the officer did not have to fulfill the command. Speaker Twitchell was accused of unfairness and "steam roller" tactics, and he resented the statements of members to that effect.

Rule Against Personalities.
Insinuations that some members were not telling the truth were cast by some members.

There will be no one accused of lying on the floor of this house, said the speaker, adding: "You may think he is lying, but don't keep it here." Representative Reichert declared that he had evidence in his possession to prove there was a concerted effort being made to put the Bank of North Dakota out of business at all costs, and he declared "the welfare of the state rests largely on what is now being done."

Hits Attorneys.
Representative Sherman, of Kidder, criticized the committee for engaging as attorneys Francis Murphy and John Sullivan because he said they were known to be bitter enemies of the industrial program. Representative Shipley defied any member to point out any unfair action on the part of attorneys in the investigation.

During the debate Dell Patterson was declared out of order.

"How could I be expected to be in god order after having the steam roller run over me for the last six weeks?" he asked.

"Perhaps the same way as the to redeposit, and not to loans or items for collection on closed banks.

Money Outside State.

A record of redeposits outside the state, in reserve banks, was produced. Reading from it Mr. Murphy, quoted figures at intervals from Sept. 15, 1919, to Sept. 15, 1920, showing:

On Nov. 15, 1919, $1,000,437.16 outside the state; over $1,000,000 until Dec. 4, 1919, when it increased, except on Dec. 15, when it fell to $559,733.07; on Feb. 24, 1920, it was up to $2,179,554.54; on Feb. 28 it was $2,114,659.39; on March 4, it was $2,080,119.74; on March 6, it was $2,048,370.39; the increase went up five, six, seven millions until March 25, when it was $30,142,840.37; on March 31, when it was $10,230,149.08; and a gradual decrease after staying on an average of $9,000,000 through April, except on April 19, when it dropped below, and then on down until on June 4, the redeposits amounted to $384,187.09, and since that time has fallen to about $430,000.

"Do mean that between Nov. 15, 1919 and June 3, 1920, the average deposits outside the state was better than $5,900,000?" asked Mr. Murphy.

"Yes, as an average," Mr. Johnson replied.

Asks the Policy.

Chairman Granger asked the witness on what he based his justification for carrying such heavy deposits outside the state, and the witness replied that they knew that many of the subdivisions would draw their money out quickly and that the funds were kept outside the state in order that they might be carried as reserve against outstanding liabilities.

The witness was asked about a deposit of $104,000 in the Merchants Loan and Trust company of Chicago, of which the bank borrowed $1,000,000.

"Was this deposit active or inactive?" the witness was asked.

"Fairly active," he replied.

The same question was asked with regard to $49,000 carried in the Mercantile state bank of St. Paul, and the witness replied it was "active to a certain extent."

He was asked to produce records on these points.

The question was asked as to the expense of operation of the bank and Mr. Lemke suggested the Bishop, Bismarck and company audit was at hand. It showed $233,533.15 as general expenses of the bank from May 1, 1919 to Dec. 3, 1920.

On deposits outside the state the bank received, usually 2 per cent interest, sometimes 2 1/2 per cent, the witness said, and 4 per cent from banks in the state.

Quiz on Farm Loan.

He was questioned as to a farm loan transaction through the Northern State bank, which was closed. The money was placed with the bank to complete a farm loan, and the bank got the lien on the property. It was added by counsel that the borrowed might not have got the full amount of the loan, although the outstanding liens were taken up.

He also was questioned as to loans made in Minot to institutions in Minnesota, including Grant Youngman, former high league, and Jorgen Olson, were connected with.

League Corporations.

J. W. Brinton, recalled to the stand, questioned as to the formation of "league corporations" through alleged aid of the Bank of North Dakota.

He said he charged embezzlement on information from J. R. Waters, former manager of the Bank of North Dakota, and other employees of the bank, in particular as to a transaction where he said an amount of money, instead of being paid out by check, was paid out in currency, and that his charges of embezzlement in the bank were as respect to officers permitting such action.

"Who told you about this?" asked Mr. Sullivan.

The witness replied that Waters, and Mailey Townsend told him about it. He said that the affair includes three different transactions, and that he had information confirming it from Water Liggett, former deputy immigration commissioner and representative of league newspapers in Washington.

Dispute Only Method.

Brinton said he didn't think there was any dispute as to the alleged embezzlement taking place, but as to who was responsible, Liggett accusing Waters and Waters accusing Cathro.

"Give us a statement of what the transactions consisted," Mr. Sullivan said.

Brinton said money was given to Townsend and he carried it to Hastings, former financial manager of the Nonpartisan league, in currency, he thought $1,000, and later Hastings when in New York made a draft on the bank or employees, drawing on a "friendly bank" near Devils Lake, and that the draft was honored and paid; later, he said, he held a conversation with Liggett and was told Hastings had got $500 under an assumed name, while in Chicago, from the Bank of North Dakota.

Liggett was named as one of the parties who borrowed money from the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo.

"When was the $500 transported to Mr. Hastings?"

"My entire information comes from Liggett," said Brinton.

"Did Liggett say when?"

"At the time he and Hastings were in Chicago."

"Have you any information as to the basis on which he got this?"

"On the theory that Hastings was an employee in the bond department, I think, but Snyder said the entry was erased and the books changed."

Liggett in St. Paul.

Brinton declared he had a letter in a safety deposit box in St. Paul to bear out his statements, and Attorney Sullivan informed him he might require that he get this.

Brinton said that there was a controversy as to the handling of the $1,000 item, that Waters said the reason was sent in currency was because he wouldn't sign a check.

"Have you any information to connect Mr. Cathro with this transaction?"

"No."

He said he assumed Cathro was cognizant of the matter because he was in charge of the bank.

"You eliminate Waters?"

"I eliminate no one—I have only his word."

"Favored Banks."

Asked if there were any other "favored banks" he knew of besides the Scandinavian-American bank of St. Paul, Brinton named the Mercantile State bank of Minneapolis as being the only one, to his personal knowledge.

That is, where funds were deposited as a reward for something done for the league, Mr. Townley or others."

"What benefit did the Mercantile State bank give the league?"

"It carried at one time sufficient stock to give Hastings control of the Scandinavian-American bank as a loan, holding the stock in the bank as security."

He said Hastings had obtained a loan from a St. Paul bank and that when it was called he went to the Minneapolis bank and got it to take a loan over. The loan then came into a North Dakota bank, he claimed.

Brinton declared that the League Exchange, known as a "league corporation," is in control of the Scandinavian-American bank, having borrowed money and hypothecated the stock.

He said he assumed that the Mercantile bank got deposits as a favor, and that the league was organized for the Consumers stores for Townley, and the Publishers National Service Bureau for Townley.

Regarding Stores Company.

Questioned as to the Consumers United Stores company he said that there were but ten shares of stock issued. Three incorporators, Norbert O'Leary, Townley's stenographer, and Charles Heck and Edward Elliott, got one share each, and said that he understood Mr. Lemke, as Townley's attorney, held the remaining seven shares. The three shares were transferred, he said, to Johnson, treasurer, himself and Hastings, and that they had no money for them. He said the other seven shares were issued to Mr. Lemke, and that Mr. Lemke didn't pay the corporation, holding the stock for Mr. Townley.

"What is the source of that information?"

"Conversation with Mr. Townley."

"You arrived at the conclusion that Mr. Lemke was holding the seven shares of stock for the farmers of North Dakota?"

"Yes."

Courier-News Deal.

Taking up the Courier-News, Brinton said he ran it two or three weeks, after it was purchased, until a manager came from New York, naming Ed Wood, Al Fox and Mr. Lemke as the officers, and said that Mr. Lemke was president. He said he understood Mr. Lemke was holding the stock in trust; after the paper was taken over.

For whom?

For the farmers in North Dakota in the Nonpartisan league.

During a pause in the hearing Mr. Lemke suggested questions to Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Sullivan wrote them down.

"Do you know whether Mr. Lemke ever got any money from the Consumers United Stores company?"

"The only thing I know is a loan of $500 to Wood, Townley and Lemke as I presume, officers of the National Nonpartisan league."

"Where did you get this information?"

"From the president of the company who turned the money over."

"Do you know of him (Lemke), getting any money indirectly?"

"No."

He said he thought Lemke got his compensation from the organizations he was an officer of rather than the ones he controlled.

"How long were you connected with Townley and the league?"

"From the spring of 1917 until the present time."

"You are at this time in the employ of Mr. Townley?"

"Indirectly, yes."

LAW VIOLATORS
KILL DEER NEAR BISMARCK, CLAIM

House Game and Fish Committee Makes an Investigating Trip

VIEWS OF CHAIRMEN
Short Open Season Best Protection—Claims He's Best Shot of 'em All

Deer is being killed by law violators in the vicinity of Bismarck. Evidence of this was found by members of the house game and fish committee, which made a trip to the woods northwest of Bismarck.

The conclusion of William Bauer, chairman of the committee, is that the only way deer can be protected successfully is by allowing a short open season, such as is provided in house bill No. 107, and by vigorously prosecuting law violators and heavy penalties.

House bill No. 107 is now before the senate.

The committee enjoyed the trip, and Chairman Bauer claims that he clearly established his claim to being the best open field shot in the state.

The committee members did not kill any deer or catch any law violators, but they saw the tracks of four deer and hunters tracks following, and scared up and saw a number of deer.

We also found the hide of one fawn and some low down money coyote on two lefts in the form of a human shot and left hanging on limb. I picked up the hide and gave it in your as proof of law violations," said Mr. Bauer.

What Closed Season Means.

"I am more and more convinced that having a closed season on deer means protection for the benefit of a few law-breakers and the only way to get real protection is to put a small open season on deer such as is provided in house bill No. 107, which, if passed, provides a $100 to $500 fine and jail sentence for killing deer contrary to the law, and it is hoped by the game and fish committee of the house that the senate will approve the bill. Otherwise the season will be left open in the fall of 1921 and a twenty-day open season instead of a ten-day open season."

Now They Shoot.

In claiming to be the best open field shot in the state, Chairman Bauer also classified the shooting ability of the other members of the committee, as follows:

Representative Maddock, fair shot and good sportsman.

Representative Durkee, confident hit the side of a barn from the inside.

Representative Slotnick might hit a rabbit that was sitting.

Representative Martin Olson wore out before he had a chance to show his ability.

Representative Root, to whom an open or closed season makes no difference—he couldn't hit anything anyway.

The members were guests of several Bismarck men, and Chairman Bauer admits some of them might accidentally get some game if they were allowed to shoot day and night.

PUT ON PAYING POST SHOW

Fred W. Dralle, Casper, Wyo., Successfully Served as General Manager of "Stampede."

Fred W. Dralle of Casper, Wyo., chairman of the state executive committee of the American Legion, gained national recognition for his home-town post of the Legion, a general manager of "Stampede" which cost $20,000 to stage and which added $3,000 to the post treasury.

Mr. Dralle taught school at Butte, Mont., and later was superintendent of schools at Roundup, Mont. He served for a term as clerk and recorder of Musselshell county, Mont., and is now an officer in the Standard Refinery of Casper.

Although he was 38 years old when the United States entered the war, Mr. Dralle enlisted in the Central Machine Gun Officers' Training school and was stationed at Camp Hancock, Ga.

VERY FEW WILL BE DROPPED

Legionnaires Are Rushing to Pay 1921 Post Dues; Many New Members Being Added.

The 10,000 post adjutants of the American Legion, according to reports reaching national headquarters from all over the country, are finding themselves now in the busiest weeks of the year as regards work.

The rush of Legionnaires to get in their 1921 post dues within the time limit set, with the penalty of being dropped from membership, is delinquent after that date, piled necessary clerical and other detail work onto the shoulders of post adjutants in an unprecedented manner.

To judge by the returns thus far available, the list of men to be dropped from membership for non-payment of their 1921 post dues within the specified time will be only a small fraction of the legion and will be more than offset by the thousands of new members already obtained in the membership drives of various departments.

TALKED WITH MONKEY "KING"

Buddhist Disciple Was Positive That the Animal Understood Speech—He Addressed to Him.

A third degree disciple of Buddha who hails from the famous Yellow mountains (Huang Shan) says they are the home of tigers, wildcats, wild horses, goats, bears and an animal resembling a panther, with bristly hair and supple skin—and monkeys.

The monkeys he divided into two classes, one the ordinary brown monkey with a tail, the other white breasted and white faced, with a gray back and but little smaller than a man. He intimated that this type manifested a degree of intelligence when spoken to, very much resembling man, and was in fact.

To this second class belongs what he called "the Great White Monkey King," ruler of all the beasts of the mountains, and described as being more than twenty feet tall, with arms ten feet long, four tusks each at least a foot long, a face and eyes proportionately large, and a voice that made the earth tremble whenever it spoke.

He said he had seen this great monkey king twice—once at a distance of half a mile and once when he dropped down from a high cliff and stood within fifteen feet of it. On this occasion the monkey king was attended by five smaller monkeys.

He attempted to address them, whereupon they all sat down and gave respectful hearing, punctuating his remarks with assenting grunts which indicated that the message was being understood. When he had finished his speech the monkey king arose muttering something and started away.

GREED WORSE THAN POVERTY.

Former Always Fruitful of Evil, While the Latter Is Often Incentive to Virtue.

The fear of poverty is not in itself a bad thing, writes Dr. Charles A. Loomis, editor of the Waterbury, Conn. Republican, and president of the Publishers Buying corporation, said in talking to representatives of New England publishers last night.

A number of publishers were forced to go into the market and at the same time bid for paper. This sent the price up. More paper was being manufactured than ever before. The available supply was sufficient for the use to satisfy all needs, but by the time information circulated by the manufacturers, the newspaper men were led to believe that there was a world-wide shortage.

The result was that the publishers lost millions.

MORALS BILL AGITATES S. D. LEGISLATORS

Dick Richards Threatens to Carry Issue Before the People

EXPLAINS HIS MEASURE

'Common Sense Moral Program' Is Term Given By Author

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 8. —Declaring that unless his "Moral Citizenship" is acted favorably upon by the legislature, H. A. Richards of Huron announced to the members of the house temperance committee that he would leave the measure to an initiative vote of the people in 1922.

Proposed Can. —The proposed law would not take away fundamental individual rights intended to promote individual responsibility, temperance, morality and respect for law; but the proposed law would distinguish between the rights of individual and the rights of individual which the Volstead act and all state prohibitory laws fail to do.

The proposed law would permit liberty in diet to the moral citizen by permitting the manufacture, sale and use of the spirit of wine as a stimulant in such a way as to insure clean civic environment in distribution thereof and encourage individual responsibility in personal government. Under this kind of law the wine may be used as a physical thermometer on personal character to stimulate individual responsibility. The bone dry prohibition law stimulates illicit conditions, ill will, crime, drunkenness and disrespect for law. There is no better physical thermometer on individual character than use of wine, beer or whiskey. If an individual cannot control his appetite for wine, beer or whiskey such person is not responsible. It is as good a test on personal character as the alcohol thermometer is on the temperature of the human sphere. The proposed law would punish moral delinquency in the use of the wine by moral penalties as far as possible to encourage morality. Thereby use liberty, citizenship, wine and law to reward morality and service and to punish immorality. The use of the wine is primarily a moral question; but the citizen is entitled to his moral liberty under law first before the state shall step in. If a person fails to be moral, then the state should first apply moral penalties by loss of citizenship, the right to vote, the right to enter the official civil service, and the right to buy the wine before resorting to the use of the police power in a positive way by prison sentences to eliminate such person from society. Financial fines are of course primitive methods the same as prison sentences in a vain attempt to force morality.

Moral Field. —The fact that bone dry prohibition has gone into the individual moral field to try to stop the use of the well known natural law of fermentation by state law in attempting to save sinners by the police club suggests that the providential time is at hand for evolution of state law to a little higher moral plane, by including all the lesser moral crimes under a state temperance law with severe moral penalty of forfeiture of citizenship for say habitual drunkenness, habitual ill will, habitual lying, habitual looting, habitual cheating, habitual dead beating of creditor, vote selling, bribery, and tax dodging; thereby quicken the citizen's spirit to self respect by appealing to feeling (conscience), or pride by state law to require individual responsibility in personal conduct based upon a common sense moral program. This program of primary principles of morality.

"NIGHTIE NIGHT" NEXT ATTRACTION

Theatre goers will have an opportunity of witnessing the smartest farce that has been produced in years when "Nightie Night" Adolph Klaber's comedy comes to the Auditorium, Feb. 11. Not in years has a play come here so highly recommended. The New York Critics were unanimous in proclaiming it the smartest farce comedy that Broadway had seen in many years and the Princess Theatre was packed to the doors at every performance where this splendid play ran for the entire season.

Mr. Klaber has carefully selected the cast that will present the play here and an excellent company is promised.

WOMEN MEN ADMIRE. Men admire a pretty face, a good figure, but most of all the happy, healthy, contented woman, as beauty fades and the figure will change. Women who are troubled with backache, headache, the dreadful dragging sensations, and nervous irritability, cannot hope to be popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible. The cause of these troubles however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is a natural restorative for such conditions, and dispels effectually all those distressing symptoms. ADV. Alexander of ancient Greece used to encourage wine-drinking matches, in one of which 36 contestants died from over-drinking.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL WORKING.
It was evident from the interest shown at the Saturday meeting of the Women's Community Council, that real work is to come out of the organization of the women of the city into a group for general welfare. Every department reported and all showed that things are being accomplished. Out of more than thirty organizations represented on the council, twenty-five had representatives at the meeting.

Judge Nussels addressed the council on helpful ways in which the women of Bismarck can assist in the work of betterment for the city and the county. The speaker's suggestions were workable and his hearers feel that a line of procedure may readily be outlined from what was said.

From the fact that Miss Ruth Kolling has been authorized as county and city juvenile officer, the council hopes to co-operate in many ways for bringing about better conditions among children and young people.

HERE FOR SESSION.
The little colony of wives of representatives and senators here for the session grows as the days go by. Mrs. Frank A. Vogel, wife of Representative Vogel of Cole Harbor is at the McKenzie, and Mrs. A. A. Bryans, who has accompanied Representative Bryans of Turtle Lake, has a room on Fourth street.

SENATORS' DAUGHTER HERE.
Miss Jean Gardner was the house guest of Mrs. N. W. Kelly over the weekend. Miss Gardner, who is taking a kindergarten course at the Valley City Normal school, came on to visit her father, Senator Gardner of Lakota. She returned to Valley City on Sunday evening.

LEAGUE DANCING PARTY.
The members of the Nonpartisan league and their friends enjoyed a pretty dancing party in Patterson hall last night. With good music and a jolly group, the dance program was the diversion of the evening from nine to past midnight. Several out of town guests were present.

GUEST AT SCHOOL.
Representative Joseph Kitchen, chairman of the Committee on Education addressed the pupils at the Indian school this morning and was their guest at dinner. Mr. Kitchen expressed himself as pleased with the condition of the school and the work done there.

FROM SASKATCHEWAN.
Mrs. E. B. Woodward is entertaining at her home on Fourth street; her sister, Mrs. DeKay of Saskatchewan, Canada. Mrs. DeKay will return to her home in a few days.

CAN YOU COPY THIS STORY IN A MINUTE?

ROSE FRITZ.

Stenographers!
Can you dash off this story on your typewriter in one minute?

The story has two hundred sixty-five words in it—count them!

Rose Fritz wrote just that many words on her typewriter in a minute and it's the world's record. Her speed is more than twice as fast as that of the average office—speed—marvel.

Miss Fritz has held the typewriter speed championship for four years. She has been winner in 40 contests. And now she is head of a school of stenography in New York City.

How does Miss Fritz do it?
"It's all in the hand—the typist hand," she explains. "It can be acquired by going to bed early, taking daily exercise and never dissipating. If your hand trembles, never expect it to rule the keyboard."

Miss Fritz thinks the best position open to women in the business world is that which lets her become acquainted with men.

"Then," she says, "when the young secretary or stenographer marries she is in position to pick her husband well and work in his office—thus keeping nearer to him and closer to his deepest interests."

And she believes that the wife who works in her husband's office has found the missing link to matrimonial happiness.

Miss Fritz took up the touch system when she was 15. She has traveled all over the world. Kings have watched her.

How would you like to appear before a king? The first move is to be able to dash off this story, without error, in 60 seconds.

Try it, on your typewriter! Try now!

DR. FREY TO APPEAR HERE FEBRUARY 11

A most timely and compelling topic of discussion will be dealt with in the address of Rev. John Alexander Frey, recently a worker in Russia and called for two years in Siberia. Mr. Frey is in a position to state the exact conditions, as they now exist in Europe and Russia. This will be a rare opportunity and one that all interested in European conditions should embrace.

Mr. Frey will speak in the Presbyterian church on Friday evening, Feb. 11th at 8 p. m. This is a return engagement. Mr. Frey spoke to crowded houses before and great audiences are expected next Friday evening.

Plan to Attend a supper to be given by men of the McCabe Methodist church, Thursday the 17th next. This feed will be accompanied by orchestra. Don't forget the date, Feb. 17th.

A RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Patrons of the theatre will again be waited on the wings of super-melodrama, when Richard Walton Tully will present his delightfully interesting story of the Hawaiian Islands, "The Bird of Paradise," which comes to the auditorium Thursday evening, Feb. 10.

This will be the third time in this city, and each year it is seen it gains new friends besides retaining its old admirers. The story tells of the tragic love of Luana, a beautiful Hawaiian princess, for a young American doctor whom she meets and marries, while he is under the spell of the tropics. She leaves that she cannot hold his love with her lips and arms, and when he casts her off, she returns to her people and gives her self as a human sacrifice to save them from the wrath of the Goddess Pele.

COMEDY BRINGS BIG AUDIENCE TO AUDITORIUM

Sanford Dodge's American Legion Production Proves Unusual Success

CAST IS EXCELLENT

Bismarck Actors Give Creditable Performances in Difficult Parts

Two large and pleased audiences yesterday enjoyed the entertaining and amusing comedy of domestic complications, "Are You a Mason?" given by Bismarck young men and girls, assisted by Sanford Dodge, well-known actor and play producer. The comedy was produced under the auspices of the Lloyd Spetz post, American Legion.

The story concerns a young married man and his father-in-law, both of whom have been hiding behind an alleged connection with the lodge in order to cover up their activities in the early morning hours. The play is full of laughable situations and the cast last night missed no opportunity to get the jokes and situations across the footlights.

Plays Perry.
R. Sherman Wright as Frank Perry, the husband, got into a difficult part in splendid style and played at all times with snap and cleverness.

Miss May I. Bope as Norah, the maid, was a wedding gift from Mrs. Bloodgood and was always getting on the inside of Perry's nocturnal wanderings, much to his distress, got the most out of her part.

Rev. Ineth was a natural Ernest Morrison, who was a real lodge member and came in handy as a lifesaver for both of the bluffer in the latter part of the play.

Makes Clever Girl.
Robert Buzzelle put over a highly hilarious flirtation scene while masquerading as the fictitious daughter of Mr. Bloodgood.

William C. Paulson in assuming the fortunes of Hamilton Travers, the grandiloquent, found a character in which he fitted like parts for a Ford car.

Miss Berget Caspary had the advantage over other members of the cast, except Mr. Dodge, because of her frequent appearances before the public and her musical and dramatic training. It was to be expected, therefore, that she would give a technically more finished production. As Mrs. Eva Perry, she wore a bevy of pretty gowns and played with spirit and a full appreciation of the opportunities for humorous development.

Miss Hazel Pierce as Mary, made a chic little maid in the Perry home.

The Misses Isabelle Cochrane and Jessie Skitter, were the Bloodgood girls, Annie and Lulu, ready in love under the tremendous difficulties in their path by the arrogant Mrs. Bloodgood. They had parts which did not give them many opportunities but they made good use of the chances they had and pleased the audiences.

Margaret MacDonald as the person who wrote the checks in the Bloodgood family, made a hit with her frigid characterization of the woman who was always reminding her husband of Angelina, an old flame who was supposed to have taken poison because of Amos.

Eleanor Lamb as Fanchon Armistead, gives Amos Bloodgood a sharp rebuff, when he mistakes her for his alleged daughter.

Shows Speed.
Edward H. Prichel only had one entrance as the policeman who had arrested Young Perry during one of his escapades. Miss Olive Seiselt as Mrs. Halton, cleverly characterized the woman who couldn't see why her usually talkative husband would say nothing.

Major George H. Russ, was her husband who was willing to do anything so as to gain entrance to the lodge. His speed exhibitions and drill costumes to the "ladies" kept the house in a titter.

The two performances of the play were a good demonstration of what could be done by residents of Bismarck in putting on plays in which local talent supplied the material for the cast. A little more experience in acting on the part of a few was all that was needed to bring the production well up to the uniform standard of many professional companies.

Theaters of this city who recall the youth, charm, beauty and acting of Carl Myers in a number of screen dramas and who have missed his pleasing personality in the films of the past year, will doubtless be glad to welcome him back to the silent drama when he appears at the Orpheum theatre on tonight, presenting "In Folly's Trail," a play of New York's seething Bohemia, directed by Rollin Sturgeon.

"In Folly's Trail" was selected by Universal from hundreds of scenarios proposed to mark Miss Myers' return to the screen. It is from the magazine story by Katherine Leiser Robinson and its central figure, Lita O'Farrell, a gay butterfly of the modern Babylon, who finally realizes that life is not all froth and frivolity, gives the star an opportunity to display her broader talents.

A B C OF SUCCESS

A—"There is no fear of my starving, father," said the deaf boy, Kito, begging to be taken from the poor-house and allowed to struggle for an education; "we are in the midst of plenty, and I know how to prevent hunger."

"The Hottentots subsist a long time on nothing but a little gum; they also, when hungry, tie a ligature around their bodies."

"Cannot I do so, too?"

"The hedges furnish blackberries and nuts, and the fields, turnips; a hayrack will make an excellent bed."

This deaf boy with a drunken father, who was thought capable of nothing better than making shoes, as a pauper, became one of the greatest biblical authors and scholars in the world.

His first book was written in the workhouse.

"Let me say in regard to your adverse worldly circumstances," exclaimed Dr. Talma, to a class of young men, "that you are on a level now with those who are finally to succeed."

"Mark my words, and think of it 30 years from now."

"You will find that those who, 30 years from now, are the millionaires of the country, who are the orators of the country, who are the poets and writers of the country, who are the strong merchants and bankers and lawyers and doctors of the country, who are the greatest philanthropists of the country—mightiest in church and state—are no wiser a level with you, not an inch above you, and in straightened circumstances now."

C—Elihu Burritt said the proudest moment of his life was when he first gained the full meaning of the first 15 lines of Homer's Iliad.

His father died when he was 16, and Elihu was apprenticed to a blacksmith in his native village of New Britain, Conn.

He worked at the forge 10 or 12 hours a day, but while blowing the bellows, he would solve mentally difficult problems in arithmetic.

In a diary kept at Worcester, whither he went some ten years later, are such entries as these: "Monday, June 18, headache, 40 pages Cuvier's 'Theory of the Earth,' 4 pages French, 11 hours' forging."

"Tuesday, June 19, 60 lines Hebrew, 30 Danish 10 Bohemian, 9 Polish, 15 names of stars, 10 hours' forging."

"Wednesday, June 20, 25 lines Hebrew, 8 lines Syriac, 11 hours' forging."

Burritt mastered 16 languages and 32 dialects and ten years later became president of Westmore College.

AMERICA AND JAPAN

The Japanese think we don't like them, and profess to be worried about it.

The Japanese are wrong. The American people as a whole have no personal grievance against them. We seek no trouble with Japan. We didn't like the Shantung grab because we were sorry for China, and the Korean massacres are disgusting to us because of their barbarity.

However, we do not propose to meddle in the business, so long as the American flag and American interests are protected, any more than we propose to meddle in the British government of India or the government of Ireland.

We have troubles of our own.

So long as the Japanese do not become a distinct world menace, the people of the United States will have no special interest whatever in them or their doings.

If the attitude of the whole country toward Japan could be averaged and presented in summary it would probably turn out to be one, not of "watchful waiting," but simply of waiting.

It is waiting to see what the Japanese do in their new won position in world affairs. Actually the fate of Japanese-American relations is in the hands of the Japanese themselves.

The Japanese should understand that among individuals the world-menace question is not altogether settled.

The reason that many Americans are suspicious of the objects of Japan, or at least one reason, is that she remains the last considerable dynastic empire in the world.

And Americans are naturally suspicious of empires and dynasties.

They feel pretty generally that emperors have to make aggressive wars every once in a while, and well planned and successful ones, if they are to retain their jobs. Anyway, an emperor in this country would have to do something of that sort. He would have to give us some kind of a run for our money.

Also, the late German Kaiser has furnished an example of the direction that the ambitions of an absolute monarch, with a well disciplined country back of him, are liable to take.

Perhaps, from the American point of view, the present democratic movement in Japan is the most hopeful sign upon the horizon.

In the meantime, "with friendship for all and malice toward none" America contents herself with blinking an occasional inquiring eye across the Pacific. It is not that we want anything from the Japanese. It is only that we will not tolerate any more of this Bernhardt kultur bus iness from them or from anyone else.

THE LURE

By John Boyle O'Reilly

"What bait do you use," said a Saint to the Devil "When you fish where the souls of men abound?" "Well, for special tastes," said the King of Evil, "Gold and fame are the best I've found."

"But for general use?" asked the Saint. "Ah, then,"

Said the Demon, "I angle for Man, not men, And a thing I hate, Is to change my bait, So I fish with a woman the whole year round."

A callous will often give the palmist as much information as a line in the palm.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here—order that readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

PRIMARY LAW AMENDMENT

Legislation to correct the evils of the present primary system will take the general form, it is said, of legalizing such a Convention as the Republican Party had last year to indorse candidates for State office.

That is an extremely conservative measure. It will be of some benefit, but it will not go far to make the primary law fair and workable, unless it carries some restrictive features.

Take the 1920 experience as an illustration. The Convention was called to unite Republicans and prevent kidnapping of the party by a hostile organization, the Nonpartisan League. That it succeeded once is no assurance that it will succeed again.

After the convention had indorsed its candidates and adopted a platform, four self-appointed candidates stayed in the race, disregarding all appeals for unity. Though Mr. Preus defeated the Nonpartisan League candidate, he was a minority nominee, and the margin between success and failure was small. His closest competitor, the Townley candidate, was running under Republican colors on a platform sharply opposed to the platform of the Party convention.

It would be fair to make every candidate come before the Party convention. The South Dakota plan, under which the Convention might submit both majority and minority candidates, is worthy of consideration. This does not bar out independent filings, but in practice tends to confine the struggle to two candidates.

Another suggestion is that no candidate be permitted to file until after the State Convention and that every candidate filing for a Party nomination be required to endorse the platform of his Party convention. That would tend to eliminate the self-made candidates and is important.

The Nonpartisan League will, of course, object, as it does to anything which interferes with its privilege of laying cuckoo eggs in any nest it fancies. But the suggestion does not involve any injustice.

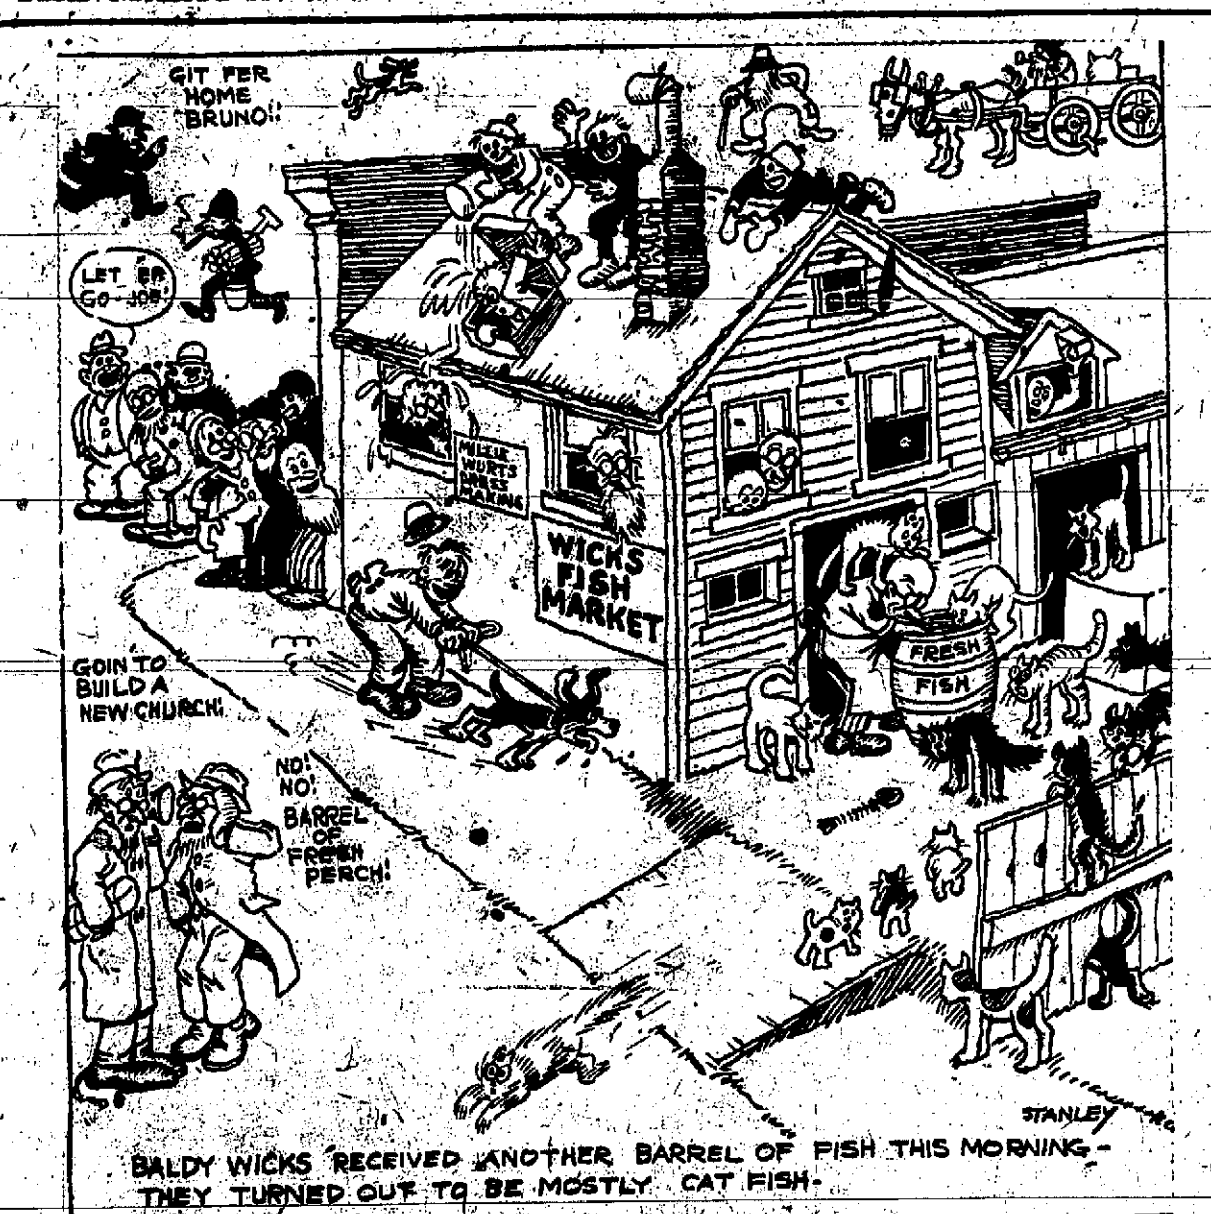

A Party primary is for the selection of candidates by members of a given Party. The Nonpartisan League, in spite of all camouflage, is a political party in itself. To be honest and square, it should make its own nominations as a party in Minnesota, just as it does in South Dakota.

A Republican State Convention, representing Republican voters of every county in Minnesota, is competent to say what the Republican Party stands for. Every man running for office as a Republican should be willing to indorse and adopt the Republican platform. If he cannot swallow the platform, he should not run as a Republican. The individual voter may not agree with everything in the platform, and still may adhere to the Party, but the case of a man assuming to be a party standard bearer is different.

What has been said applies with equal force to the Democratic Party. In fact, the Democratic Party has been the chief sufferer from the present primary system. For a long time it appeared that the law was breaking down the majority party and so helping the minority, but in the last few years the minority has suffered, and the Democratic Party has been brought face to face with possible extinction. It could have been captured bodily at any time by the Nonpartisan League, as it was in Montana and Colorado last year.

There may be other suggestions more feasible than those here mentioned. If so, let the Legislature adopt them. The people ask only that the law be made fair and workable this winter, without any more dillydallying.—Minneapolis Journal.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Oliver Roberts Barton.

The Fairy Queen was right when looking fish was more than human nature told the twins that the Bobadil Jin would be after them harder than ever.

When the pelican, who was carrying them in his talons toward the shore from way out in the ocean, came quite close to land, he completely forgot the Queen's warning. She had told him to keep his children safely and to keep his own counsel. Whether it was because his journey was so nearly over, or because the wicked Jin began to get in his work again, I'm not sure, but a fish appeared on top of the water, directly below where the pelican was flying, and there was trouble at once.

The pelican was getting quite hungry and as of course, he was allowed to swallow Wagon and Nick, the sight of that lovely, tender, delicious what had happened, they found themselves falling straight towards the waves. But before they touched the water, a wonderful thing occurred. The fish disappeared, and a huge eagle appeared at the same instant in the air beside them. He grabbed a twin in each great claw and flew toward the land, flapping his great wings, and screaming wickedly.

But instead of dropping them in a safe place as the pelican had been told to do, the eagle continued flying toward the top of a high mountain. Up he flew, onward and upward, until the clouds were below him. The twins could no longer see the world beneath.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Editor Tribune: I wish to call attention to house bill No. 103 introduced by the game and fish commission and made public in your issue of February 4, 1921.

The bill first recommends that if it be unlawful for hunters to enter upon premises posted with "no hunting, no trespassing" signs without the consent of the owner.

This part is good and perfectly proper as many of our settlers own brush land which borders on the Missouri river and on which they pasture their cattle and horses. Now comes the objectionable part which contains "Excepting that any deer or animal which was shot and wounded may be pursued on posted lands without consent."

This last I contend completely destroys the evident purpose of the bill and if I am not mistaken it is in direct violation of our trespass law in that it prevents, not only the individual from protecting his own stock and property, but operates against his protecting the game on his own preserves. If he is so inclined, it is self-evident that all of these conditions are made possible for the reason that any and all hunters could go upon posted lands and if apprehended by the owner, could claim having chased or tracked a wounded deer thereon. Now in the event that these particular premises composed excellent hunting grounds, what is there to prevent said hunters from camping there for the balance of the hunting season all the time hunting for the wound deer yet all the time legally hunting for his back and during this time every shot endeavor the owners stock to a considerable degree. I know of several cases where stock has been killed by hunters even when the game season was closed. Now you can readily see or imagine what danger the farmers stock is in when the brush is filled with a bunch of excited hunters using high powered rifles.

Yours truly,
F. G. MATTHEWSON
Underwood, N. D., February 7, 1921.

LOST "HONEY MINE" SOUGHT IN TEXAS

Bees Reported to Have Been Storing Sweets in Great Cavern for Years.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Search for the famous "lost mine of honey," where it is claimed that bees for centuries have been storing away billions of pounds of honey, has been renewed.

Bringing with him numerous maps and diagrams of caves through Texas, E. B. Rees, an engineer, arrived here recently to begin his quest for the "cavern of sweets."

In the event his search is successful, an Atlanta (Ga.) firm, which he represents, plans to erect a huge refinery near the cave, he says.

According to tradition this cave, said to contain 100,000,000,000 pounds of honey, is somewhere near Menard, Tex. Indiana first reported it. Then Spanish missionaries and soldiers, working their way northward from the outpost of San Antonio, heard of the "honey mine." It was said to be high up on a hill and inaccessible, except by hanging over a cliff.

In later years, after the Indians and Spanish were gone, efforts were made to enter this cave, and one adventurer is said to have been stung to death.

The most promising clue in the possession of Rees, who is making his headquarters in Fort Worth during his quest, is from San Saba county. There a honey cave exists, and is high up on the hillside. Residents near there, however, will not venture an opinion as to the amount of honey stored away in the cavern recesses or as to the age of the cave. But they say positively no one has ever been able to reach the honey.

At one time young men living near the "mine" organized to get the honey. The leader, armed with a blast of explosive, was lowered over the face of the cliff and down to the cave entrance. But this blast exploded prematurely and the man barely escaped with his life.

Rees estimates that the honey, if it exists in the rumored amount and can be distilled, would be worth approximately $1,000,000,000.

Discovered She Had Negro Blood, Now Seeks Divorce

Mrs. Mary LeFevre of San Francisco, strikingly beautiful and possessor of charming old South manners, said in her petition for divorce, filed recently, that two years after her marriage to Frederick LeFevre, Louisiana planter, she discovered there was negro blood in her veins. This, she felt, was an insurmountable barrier, for her pride equaled that of her husband's for his family name.

She said her husband pleaded with her to forget it, but this she is unable to do, after consulting scientists, who said the negro strain might come to the surface generations ahead.

Christmas gifts were common in medieval times.

THAT HAPPY DAY

First Lover's Kiss Lingers Always in the Memory.

"New Hopes May Bloom and Days May Come, Etc." but That Sweetness Never Fades.

It was before your voice and your nerve had developed sufficiently to permit you to ask Dorothy Doremus if you could take her to church prayer meeting nights, says a writer in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

It was after you had forewarned your small-boy scorn of all woman-kind under forty to the extent of permitting Dorothy to walk home with you when meeting was over.

And then one night the Lewis girls gave a party and you were invited. Dorothy was there, and she had on something pink. It was—well, it was like the haze that lingered about the new-born Aphrodite, though, of course, considerably opaquer.

Right there, God or Satan, or maybe the old Adam that lies deep in each of us, whispered in your ear a most universe-swaying suggestion.

"Kiss her," something said. "Kiss her on the way home."

Right there, with your eyes on the slender figure in pink, you swore you would.

Your heart hammered in your throat when you asked if you could see her home, and she said you could, with a smile that made it skip four beats entirely.

You didn't talk much as you walked through the scented night together, clamorous with insects singing in the starlight. Your mouth was dry and once or twice you thought she was watching you out of the corners of her eyes and smiling.

Oh, Eve!

At last you stood at her gate. What made you stand there, too, waiting while you stammered lame things and shuffled your feet and wondered if she couldn't hear the pounding of your heart?

"Well," you said at last, sort of gruffly. "Guess I'll have to say goodnight."

"Goodnight," she said, but she didn't move.

You took her hand. There never was a braver deed.

Then madness and a tidal wave of enormous force and power overwhelmed you. Your face was on fire and your hands were freezing, and some one had lit you in the back of the head with a baseball bat and the stars in their courses were singing together.

You had kissed her and the little boy who had been with her was gone forever.

Where is she now? You wonder sometimes. And does she know that no one has ever paid her a cleaner, fresher, purer tribute than did that little boy, long ago in the starlight?

To this day you can smell the fragrance of her hair.

Back to Primitive Times.

Shortage of paper, during the war and since, started the custom of chalking advertisements and announcements of events on walls and pavements, the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian asserts. The practice is increasing and promises to become permanent.

Printers must be suffering in consequence—people will not go to the expense of ordering posters if they think a piece of chalk and a convenient wall or flagstone will do as well.

During the recent municipal elections in this city some candidates appeared to be dispensing with posters. In one instance it was announced in big letters in blue pencil on the walls of a drinking place that a candidate would address a certain club there. Members were cordially invited to be present, and there followed the arresting announcement, also in blue pencil, "Drink free!"

But of course it is by no means certain that this last information came from the writer of the earlier part of the announcement.

For Gullible People Only.

Arthur R. Reeves in the World's Work: "Quite the climax of the many wildest schemes of London speculators a generation ago was the organization of a company such as may never be heard of again in this comic folly. Bear in mind that the officers of this new corporation were termed by would-be investors, that a miniature riot took place on the morning in question. Remember that for a subscription to a £100 share a deposit of £2 was required, and that the entire issue of stock was subscribed for. Then note the project as announced by the promoter, a calm and cool gentleman whose name and person alike escaped the authorities—'A company for carrying on an undertaking of great advantage, but no one to know what it is.'"

Zinc in the Human Body.

In his researches at the Pasteur Institute in Paris Prof. Delezenne has discovered, according to the Scientific American Monthly, that zinc is an essential and permanent constituent of the human body. The metal exists in all organs, although in rather small percentage, about 0.0001 by weight. The weight is variable, the highest proportion being found in the nervous centers; for example, in the brain, or the thymus. When it is remembered that the chemical operations of nutrition are also connected with the transformation of the nucleic acids, it seems probable that zinc is one of the most necessary agents in the growth of the body.

GIRL CHAMP AFTER RINGERS!

MARJORIE VOORHEES

Trains Her Pitching Arm Like Babe Does His "Homerun" Eye

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

Asbury Park, N. J., Feb. 9.—Horse-shoes hold the biggest interest for Miss Marjorie Voorhees.

She's the champ.

Won the national woman's horse-shoe pitching title at Akron, O., last August.

Training her pitching arm is a business. Even Walter Johnson does not take as much pains in conditioning his pitching arm as she.

"I'm going to win again at St. Petersburg, Fla., on Feb. 22," she says. "If training can do it."

"You can't ring them unless you develop 'brains' in your arm."

"Here's how I train to pitch horse-shoes:

"Swim every day.

"Shower bath and massage every morning.

"Discard corsets.

"Pitch hundreds of shoes daily.

"Concentrate on throwing ringers."

"Think I am going to win."

"Eat when and what I want."

BAN ON HEADLOCK AMUSES CHAMP'S DOCTOR WIFE

Wife of Wrestling Champ Doesn't Mind Hubby's Head Grip

Grip Produces Sleep But Leaves No Bad After Effects, She Says

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

San Jose, Cal., Feb. 9.—Agitation against the headlock hold in wrestling amuses Strangler Lewis' doctor wife.

"It's the most effective yet most harmless—of all wrestling holds," says Dr. Ada Scott-Morton-Lewis.

Before the Strangler became champion with the use of the head grip he had his wife analyze its effect on victims.

"I explained to my husband that it was impossible to crack a skull by human pressure circularly applied," she says.

"I told him to go ahead and develop it. He has."

"It produces sleep with no bad after-effects."

"And if this lock, which he has learned to use 100 percent effective isn't barred there never will be but

Jack Britton ran six miles in the mud and slush while training to meet Ted (Kid) Lewis. The champion is in earnest.

B. Leonard can make 135 for Tender of 145 for Britton. Betwixt and between.

Greasy Neale objects to Philadelphia because of bleacher fans' white shirts.

Uppa Rixey will coach pitchers at William and Mary's College. He'll teach 'em in Garry and Pat's university of Reds, later.

FIRST SIGN HERE.

Though air is chill and skies are drear, know blame well that spring is near; I've got the sign which cannot fail—My baseball glove came in the mail.

Marin Piastina thinks his head is headlock proof.

Boston Braves will start beach combing at Galveston, March 14.

Babe Ruth names his favorite sport as deer hunting. Truth is Bambino likes best what he's doing at the time.

So far they haven't figured out whether the Yankees' new bowl will seat 90,000 or less.

Carl Mays believes Eugene made a mistake in sending Doty O'Doul back to the coast. So does Letty.

Clarence Mitchell, Dodgers' star pitcher, would like a tryout at first base.

Pittsburg fans believe their team is a sure thing since Maranyville has taken the Pirate oath of allegiance.

Barney Dreyfuss pauses to remark that all Pittsburg needs is hustle.

THE REAL DOPE.

Boil all the dope on sport events down to the core.

And of them all I'll take for mine The plain box score.

GIVE THE BOYS A DAY!

"Boys' Day" weekly at big league parks is winning supporters.

A. J. Olmstead and J. H. Hassermann, Brooklyn, are trying to put the idea over.

Boys under a certain age would be admitted free to all parks on Monday during July and August.

The kiddies are baseball's assets of tomorrow.

Both future players and fans must come from the ranks.

It would give tree-climbers and knothole-peckers a close-up of the game they love.

Judge Landis is back of the free day for the boys.

The reason the judge tackled the biggest job in baseball was to save the game for the youngsters.

"Boys' Day!" There's no argument against it.

GROH BATS EINS HARD.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 9.—Helm Groh's batting eye is good on the bowling alleys. He shot at the Dayton tourney. In the city tournament he totaled 686.

YOUNG SPROUT GETS FANS' EYE!

one wrestling champ and he is my husband."

Here's Doctor Hays' new analysis of the headlock.

It's object is to retard the venous circulation.

Passive hyperemia of the brain produces narcosis, a form of anesthesia.

The brain goes to sleep.

It first produces numbness. Then follows stupor and unconsciousness if applied long enough.

As soon as pressure is released circulation wakes the brain up.

No marked after-effects result. Injuries are due not to the lock but to the struggle of victims to get free.

Dr. Lewis regards the scissors hold as applied by Joe Stecher much more dangerous.

"Stecher can break a sack of grain open at both ends with his leg hold," she says.

"He can make a horse lay down by clamping his legs around its body."

"The frail, bony structure of the chest and body cannot withstand such pressure."

"It is possible to fracture a man's leg by applying the toe hold."

"The headlock does look ghastly, though."

"People don't understand that it is simply going to sleep without toxic effects or injuries to the brain."

"There are no scientific objections being raised against my husband's hold."

"He's simply ahead of the rest of the wrestlers because he perfected a hold which they all knew about but didn't develop."

New Orleans, Feb. 9.—When Bob Martin scored a technical kayo over Marty Burke it was his 75th sleeper.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.—Owning a Babe doesn't satisfy the New York Yankees. They want a "Baby Doll" too.

Eugene is engineering a three-cornered deal that may take William "Baby Doll" Jacobson, star St. Louis Brown outfielder and slugger, to New York.

Jacobson is one of the most feared batters in the American League. He hits in the pinches. His bat has driven many runs.

"Here's the 'Baby Doll's' 1920 record.

Finished fifth to Sisler in batting. Scored 87 runs.

Made 215 hits, of which 34 were doubles, 14 triples and 9 home runs.

Drove in 122 runs.

FIND CORNER JUNK IN GARDEN RING.

New York, Feb. 9.—There's a junk corner in Tex Richard's Madison Square Garden ring.

It's the southeast corner.

Out of four championship fights but one boxer has withstood the southeast corner jinx.

Joe Lynch sat in it and lifted the bantam title from Pete Herman. But here are the losers:

Joe Welling, kayoed by Benny Leonard in 14 rounds.

Bill Brennan, sprawled by Dempsey in 12.

Richie Mitchell, stopped by Leonard in six.

Naturally there will be no mad scramble for the jinx corner by boxers in the future.

Back Hurt?

When the kidneys do not properly do their work or purify the blood stream, waste products and poisonous acid remain in the system and cause backache, rheumatic pains, humors, some muscular, quivering joints, stiffness, lame back and similar symptoms.

Foley Kidney Pills

regulate and restore the healthy, normal action of kidneys and bladder, bringing clean blood and better health, with freedom from aches and pains.

J. George Higgins, Birmingham, Ala., writes: "I fell ill and was attacked with lumbago and suffered untold agony. I had a severe pain across my back and at times could not dress or undress. I was advised to take Foley Kidney Pills for my trouble. After taking them for a few days the pain in my back left me and I have not had any lumbago since that time, although that was months ago. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all who have lumbago."

READERS ENTITLED TO BOTH SIDES OF ANY QUESTION ELSE PROGRESS BY INDEPENDENT THOUGHT IS IMPOSSIBLE

You frequently hear it said in some such way as this:

"What I object to, and where I think too many newspapers avoid their responsibility is printing opinions as news; for then they take away from the public, that must depend upon the newspaper for the major part of its information, the basis for founding that independent opinion without which the best progress is impossible."

A newspaper's first function is to print the news.

Its views are of secondary importance, but news is the chief commodity which the reader buys.
